

HOME NEWS FILM REVIEWS TV BLU-RAY DVD MUSIC VIDEO GAMES THEATER

Humankind Gets a Necessary Lesson in 'The Insult'

Submitted by PatrickMcD on February 2, 2018 - 11:14am

Adel Karam Beirut Camille Salameh Christian Cohen Media Group Construction Diamand Bou Abboud
HollywoodChicago.com Content Joelle Touma Kamel El Basha Lebanon Movie Review Palestinian
Patrick McDonald Rita Hayek The Insult Trial War Ziad Doueiri

Printer-friendly version

E-mail page to friend

PDF version

Average:

Average: 5 (2 votes)

CHICAGO – The clash of ideologies or religion that result in war is one of the most emotional of reasons to fight (and convenient for those who manipulate such emotions). "The Insult," a contender for Best Foreign Language Film at the Oscars, shows how feelings can escalate to bitter conflict.

Rating: 4.0/5.0

The film is set in Beirut, Lebanon, that is building towards a safe harbor for their citizens in a post-war era... especially the Palestinian refugees. But this is not without consequence, and it's illustrated through a confrontation between a Christian Party mechanic and a Palestinian construction worker. What starts as an exchange of misunderstood insults, becomes a trial of the century, and a powder keg with a burning fuse for the broader opposing factions in Lebanon. Exquisitely acted and highly moral, the film creates human representatives for long-simmering resentments, and holds up that humanity to the light.

Tony Hanna (Adel Karam) is a car mechanic in Beirut, Lebanon, who has never been happier. His wife Shirine (Rita Hayek) is expecting a child, and his domestic situation has never been calmer. He is watering the plants on his balcony when his broken gutter pipe pours water on a construction worker named Yasser (Kamel El Basha). Yasser is responsible for fixing it, and proceeds to do so without Tony's permission.

Tony Hanna (Adel Karam) in 'The Insult'

Photo credit: Cohen Media Group

This causes Tony to snap and destroy the pipe, which causes Yasser to hurl a harsh insult. Tony demands an apology through a mutual friend, and the two men confront each other again, only to have Tony hurl an insult towards Yasser, one that motivates Yasser to punch Tony. When the details of this encounter becomes public knowledge in a court trial, the side representing Tony (Christian Party anti-immigrants) and the side representing Yasser (Palestinians) also begin to escalate emotionally, which could lead to greater conflict.

The story is absorbing, because it is entrenched in a long journey of war and remembrance in the country of Lebanon. Their civil war lasted for 16 years (1974-1990), and the effects are still simmering and lingering. In summing up the clashes by starting with two men, the film exposes conflict at its basest and most emotional level. The men are human beings, but they are also living through a country/ideology, and are influenced through those artificial constructs.

The understanding of the characters, and how they are presented, are the greatest strengths of writer (with Joelle Touma) and director Ziad Doueiri in balancing the story toward an outcome. Both Tony and Yasser have pasts that haunt them, and in showing those pasts both men have inner justifications, and roots in how stubborn they are. Kamel El Basha as Yasser has the calmest outer demeanor, yet his trigger point is Tony's much discussed invective. Adel Karam as Tony wears his emotions on his sleeve, and will not let go of what he believes is his due. Understanding both these men is to understand Lebanon.

Tony Confronts Yasser (Kamel El Basha) in 'The Insult'

Photo credit: Cohen Media Group

There is a bit of melodrama that weakens the narrative a bit. The trial itself conveniently becomes a face-off between a bulldog (and anti-Palestinian) prosecutor and his defense attorney daughter. This again brings home the conflict through human beings, but the coincidence wasn't necessary, and distracting. Also throughout the film, Tony and Yasser find themselves alone together, and one such meeting plays out in a Solomon-like conclusion for Yasser in proving his case. As Woody Allen once said, the reason we create art is because we can't get it right in real life.

One of the best reasons for experiencing the Best Foreign Language Film category in the Oscars (and even the Golden Globes) is to glimpse other cultures through the reflection of their cinema. What is found is usually a reflection of the broader human desire to be safe and happy, despite the inner turmoil of our stations and influences in life. "The Insult" is part of that turmoil, and hopefully – for the sake of our survival – it will become easier to say "I'm sorry."

"The Insult" continues its limited release in Chicago (Arclight Chicago and Landmark Century Centre Cinema) on February 2nd. See local listings for other theaters and show times. Featuring Adel Karam, Kamel El Basha, Rita Hayek, Camille Salameh and Diamand Bou Abboud. Written by Ziad Doueiri and Joelle Touma). Directed by Ziad Doueiri. Rated "R"

By PATRICK McDONALD

Writer, Editorial Coordinator

HollywoodChicago.com

pat@hollywoodchicago.com

© 2018 Patrick McDonald, HollywoodChicago.com

Quote
Facebook
Twitter
Google
Reddit
LinkedIn
del.icio.us
MySpace
StumbleUpon
Newsvine
Digg

Post new comment

Anonymous

E-mail: *

The content of this field is kept private and will not be shown publicly.

Subject:

Comment: *

Enable rich-text

Input format

Notify me when new comments are posted

All comments Replies to my comment

CAPTCHA

This question is for testing whether you are a human visitor and to prevent spam submissions.

What code is in the image?: *

Enter the characters shown in the image.

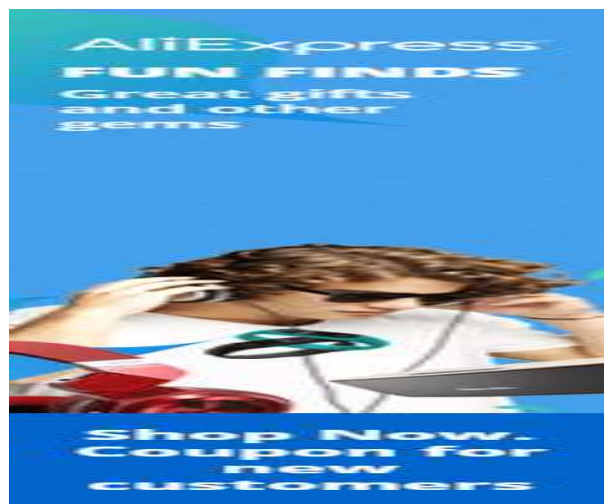

Save

Preview

ADDITIONAL READING

- 'Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs 2' Wins with Foodimals, Overemphasizes Humans
- Hollywood's 'Godzilla' Misses, Mocks Ishirô Honda's Main Warning Message
- 39-Minute IMAX Doc 'Island of Lemurs: Madagascar' With Morgan Freeman Feels Rushed, Incomplete
- Bradley Cooper's 'American Sniper' is Entertaining, One-Sided American Propaganda
- 'The Best of Me' is the Worst of Formulaic Romance Novelist Nicholas Sparks
- Heroics of 'Dunkirk' Portrayed Ardently & Humanely
- HollywoodChicago.com ESP, En Español: 'xXx,' 'Split,' 'Paterson' y '20th Century Women'
- Beneath its Curious Surface, 'Fifty Shades of Grey' a Dangerous Menace to Society
- More Risqué 'Sin City: A Dame to Kill For' Doesn't Dare to Trailblaze Again
- It's Been 'A Hard Day's Night' Then, Now & Forever
- Tartan Prancer – Yes, a Fictional Albanian Car – Steals the Otherwise Borrowed Show in 'Vacation'

- 'Wish I Was Here' Will Make You Wish You Weren't There
- Hidden Gem 'The Last Five Years' Launches Anna Kendrick as a Serious Singer
- Roger Ebert Doc a Titanic Love Story About Movies, Chaz & 'Life Itself'
- New 'Romeo and Juliet' is Almost Passable if You Haven't Seen It, Unnecessary if You Have
- Aaron Sorkin's Directorial Debut in 'Molly's Game'
- 'The Shack' is About Spirituality, Not Filmmaking
- Following a Two-Year Delay, 'Seventh Son' Should Have Been Shelved
- Failed 'Twister' Knockoff 'Into the Storm' is All Eyes, No Heart

© HollywoodChicago.com LLC HOME NEWS FILM REVIEWS TV BLU-RAY DVD MUSIC VIDEO GAMES THEATRE

