CORPORATE PRESS RELEASE

Zee Network to co-produce India's first Indo-French film "One Dollar Curry"

May 13, 2003

Zee Network, pioneers of Satellite broadcasting in India, today announced their first alliance with France TV and Silhouette Films to co-produce 'One Dollar Curry'. In India 'One Dollar Curry' is the first initiative taken by an Indian television network to bridge the gap of producing cross-over films to appeal not only the Indian audience but to the international audience.

'One Dollar Curry' is a cross-over film, which revolves around an Indian immigrant Nishan (Vikram Chatwal) who makes it big in France by opening the first Indian mobile kitchen called 'One Dollar Curry', which sells Indian cuisine. The movie also stars Smriti Mishra (of the Sardari Begum fame) playing the role of Yamini, the young entrepreneurs fiancée, who along with Nishan's friends try to steer clear of the umpteen hurdles and help him win his battles of life. 'One Dollar Curry' is the second film to be produced by Mr. Vijay Singh; whose first film Jaya Ganga was a huge success in France and other European countries

With a reach of over 225 million viewers and 80 countries globally, Zee Network, the largest media company in India and the producer of film like 'Gaddar' in the recent years, has decided to take up the mantle of producing and distributing cross-over films globally.

Speaking on the occasion, Mr. Subhash Chandra, Chairman & Managing Director, Zee Telefilms Limited said, "With the success of cross-over films gaining tremendous momentum in the international markets, the Indian Film Industry, the largest in the World has finally got the attention that it long deserves. This co-production with France, which is also the first of its kind in India, is the first step towards producing cross-over films by Zee Network and will also offer other companies in India an example to enter global markets thereby help grow the Indian film industry".

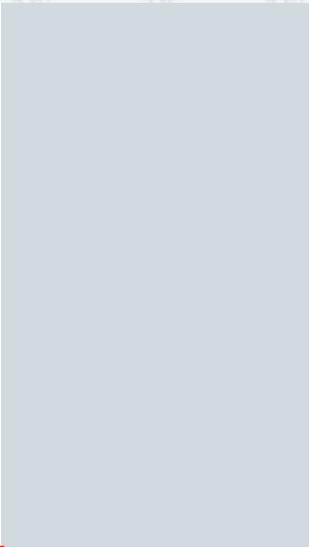

Mr. Vijay Singh, Director of 'One Dollar Curry' said, "The success of the Indian cross-over films, proves the potential for Indian cinema globally. I am really happy to produce the first Indian film with an Indian theme for France with the backing of India's largest media conglomerate.

Mr. Mark Tessier, President France TV said, "We have been trying for a very long time to develop cinematographic co-operation between India and France and are pleased to be a part of this first co-production alliance between India and France. I am really happy to get associated with Zee Network, which is a leading television company in the world, and look forward to more alliances in the future. Lastly, I think the best person suited for this project is Vijay Singh whose association with France dates back to his journalism days and I am convinced he is the best choice.
